Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveler, long I stood
And looked down one as far as I could
To where it bent in the undergrowth;

Then took the other, as just as fair,
And having perhaps the better claim,
Because it was grassy and wanted wear;
Though as for that the passing there
Had worn them really about the same,

And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
I doubted if I should ever come back.

I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I —
I took the one less traveled by

Administration

Across the never-ending concrete stretches of time, school is a bus, chartered by the state. It picks up its passengers at a young age, greets parents waving sad farewells, and takes the children on the greatest trip of their lives, the adventure of education. There are many places to sit, many useful and useless ways of spending the time. Some passengers will take the front seat, while others will sleep in the back. But by the time they reach the last stop, they will be ready for new travels, the travels of adulthood.

The fleet of buses is commanded by the superintendent of schools, whose job is to keep things on schedule, though route problems or inclement weather sometimes interferes. Each bus is driven by a principal, with the aid of the Assistant Principals. An attendance officer makes sure no one leaves ahead of time. Although some get off early, most of the passengers reach their destination, and set out to establish themselves in the world.

Guidance

Contributing to the myriad aids that the school offers young people, the Guidance Department supplies many services. It is the center for vocational guidance and for problem solving. Catalogues of various colleges, universities, and technical schools line the shelves, and applications for many colleges and universities in the state of Connecticut are made available to the student. The department also sponsors talks on different colleges. Bulletins containing the names of college representatives who plan to visit Bunnell are used in advance of the visitation, so that students can arrange to attend the meeting.

Students become acquainted with the wide field of interests that today's world involves. It is an area for advice which ranges from that of a personal nature to that of a specific range of information. At Bunnell, the Guidance Department is really the nucleus of advice and guidance.

Office Staff

The center of school activity begins in the office. To those who work there, their day has begun by 7:15. The typewriters begin tapping and the work begins to increase. By 8:00, they are working at full speed. Between signing passes and early dismissals, sending out detention slips and special notices, everyone is kept on his toes. No matter what time anyone passes the office, there is always someone there, requesting a conference or waiting for a pass to be signed or asking to see either Mr. Dunbar, Mr. Dustin, or Miss Rose.

Between classes, they cruise along at a somewhat normal pace, getting all they can get accomplished before the bell rings again and students start to crowd at the counter. At 2:15, because classes are dismissed, the sail is lifted and the office staff continues with its work.

Finally, at about 4:00, things begin to settle down to a slower pace. After papers are rearranged and everything is put in order, the secretaries leave their post until the following day.

English

This year the English program offers more flexibility for the students. Through the hard work of the department, juniors and seniors no longer have to take the usual English courses. There is now a wide variety of choices ranging from Classical Mythology to Film Making. These courses are taken on a semester basis and give the student the opportunity to concentrate in a particular area of interest.

The choices are widely varied, so that everyone can find something he enjoys. There are classes in poetry, creative writing, drama, speech, and American and English literature. Full term courses in English 11 and 12 in Journalism, and Humanities are also offered.

Sophomores take the traditional English course, but the method of presentation is new. Each of three areas, drama, composition, and literature is taught by a different teacher giving the student opportunity to work with various teachers and explore a particular area of interest in depth.

Students and teachers alike find the program both enjoyable and educational. At the end of the year the department will evaluate the results and make necessary changes.

The task of the social studies teacher is to turn inert facts into useful ones. Present policies and opinions are based on past deeds. How the past is presented to the students helps to form their opinions on today's world.

For the first two years, students study the civilization of the world. They explore the political, social and economic institutions and conditions of today that developed out of the Middle East and the Orient, through Europe, to the New World. As Juniors, they study the history of the United States; from its discovery to its development into a nation. During the Senior year, students may select from a broad area of courses covering contemporary problems in society, the functions of the government, Africa and its heritage, the Negro in America, dissent, various cultures and the study of the mind. The job takes intelligent and dedicated teachers; Bunnell is fortunate to have them.

The foreign language department's goal is to allow the Bunnell student to take a modern or classical language and proceed at his own pace.

Previous to the 1970-1971 school year, the foreign language department graded its offerings by years. A student followed a planned program for a desired length of time. However, the program did not offer as much flexibility as the department had hoped.

This system has been replaced by one that allows each student to progress according to his ability. At the end of each year, the student is evaluated and placed in a level suitable to his achievement.

All foreign language courses give the student an awareness of foreign culture. They stress the major language skills of listening comprehension, speaking, reading and writing. One who takes a foreign language at Bunnell is taking advantage of a great opportunity to study and explore the languages of other nations, past and present.

Students at Bunnell High School have a wide range of science courses to choose from in the school curriculum. Open to sophomores are interesting biology and chemistry courses. The biology course includes the study of all organisms ranging in size from one cell plants and animals to man. The chemistry course is a basic study of the structure of matter with special emphasis on laws and theories governing changes. Juniors may elect to take chemistry, chemistry-physics, physics, or modern science courses. A physics course contains the study and interpretation of laws and concepts of the universe. The modern science course was designed to emphasize the practical applications of science in the home, shop, or community. Seniors may select chemistry, chemistry-physics, physics, modern science, physiology and advanced placement biology or chemistry. The structure and functions of living things with special emphasis on the human body is examined in physiology. Advanced placement biology and chemistry are offered to students wishing to elect advanced courses in science, and cover material equivalent to a first year college course .

All science courses offered at Bunnell are given with the hope that the student will have an understanding of his natural and scientific environment and an appreciation of the contribution of science to life.

Scientists throughout the world would probably agree on the fact that math is the universal language. If a student is ever going to become a useful part of today's society, it is important that he have in his background some formal education in the field of mathematics. Collegebound students should be equipped with the tools, skills, concepts, and study habits which are formulated by the Math Department. The students here at Bunnell are provided with opportunities to study various subjects including Algebra, Geometry, Trigonometry, Analytic Geometry, Calculus and General Math. Working with these subjects, the student is able to acquire arithmetical skills and concepts of different theories which will be useful to him not only in high school and college, but also in the years after he has graduated. All of the math subjects taught at Bunnell are geared to help the student. Whether the student uses his knowledge in preparing for college, in some profession, or in the business world will depend upon his individual interests.

Masses of workers turn out each day the products of American industry without which we could not live. The roar of giant steel mills and blast furnaces produce the building blocks of our country. Metals are forged and cast into useful products. Carpenters turn forest woods into chairs, cabinets and homes. Silently, draftsmen turn out the plans for the world of the future. Auto mechanics keep the horses of today going. There is joy in creating something from nothing.

The training of these skilled workers begins in high school, in the shops. Bunnell is fortunate to have one of the finest industrial arts shops in the state, run by a fine staff of teachers. Blueprints for shops or home construction are made in Technical and Architectual Drafting. Metal Technology and Metal Working explore the field of metalurgy. Wood projects are turned out in General Woodworking and Wood Technology. Power Mechanics and Automotive Essentials prepare students to keep their cars going in good condition. With specialization in the last two years, a fine education can be obtained in the shop areas.

Business

There is little doubt that a great many Bunnell students will enter some form of business upon graduation. Therefore, there is a great need for the Bunnell High School Business Department. This department trains the students in business skills and attitudes which will be valuable to them both for vocational use and for personal use. The student is given an opportunity to gain knowledge and an understanding of the world of business and the American business system, along with the opportunity to develop occupational skills in several areas.

Subjects offered to the student include Accounting, Bookkeeping, Clerical Training, Economics, Office Training, Shorthand, and Typing. Whether he is planning to continue his education or to secure employment, the student at Bunnell is able to acquire a strong foundation in business fundamentals and skills through the various courses which are offered by the department.

Art

Courses in the art department allow the student to discover and develop a talent that may become a career. He can select from a wide area of courses.

The Fine Arts course allows the student to develop his artistic talents by working with more varied media and with more advanced problems. These problems may call upon knowledge of the history of art, which is also included in these courses. After taking the course in Fine Arts, he may elect to take Commercial Art in order to experience the practical applications of the previously learned techniques.

The crafts program involves making fine ceramics and sculpture. Metal construction and enameling are included in this program specializing in three dimensional projects. Both the crafts program and the design course are useful for hobbies and problems in everyday life. The design course, offered to seniors only, consists of design and composition. This course would be good for the "do-it-yourself" interior designer or landscaper, since it offers insight into the fundamentals of good design.

For the 1971-1972 school year, the art department will expand its selection of courses. However, there are many excellent opportunities for the student who is serious about art or the one who just wants to "dabble a little".

Music

Where would the school be without the music department? Through the cooperation of all during daily rehearsal and practice sessions, the department prepares for coming events. Whether it be an assembly, football game, or special program, the band and choir must always be prepared to perform on short notice. Together, they are another factor in creating spirit. Without them, the school spirit would be diminished. Think how a football game would be without a halftime performance, or the Christmas program without the addition of the choir. Combined, they work to unite the student body of Bunnell.

Physical Education

Physical Education is a required subject at Bunnell because the Administration realizes that physical fitness is an important factor in the lives of all. The Physical Education Department at Bunnell High School makes students aware of the importance of fitness. The nurse also plays a vital part in seeing that the student is physically fit. Among her many duties, she is always on call if a student becomes sick or injured.

Both the needs and interests of all the students are considered in the planning of the physical education program. Included in the program are the teaching of individual sport skills, competitive sports, a fitness program, recreation games, and also square dancing and social dancing. The competitive sports promote cooperation among the students, along with good sportsmanship through winning and losing. Exercise, an important key to body building and conditioning, is an important reason for the fitness program. Together, the activities help the student strive for perfect coordination, agility, durability and self-confidence, all of which are important factors in the step to physical fitness.

Homemaking

Personalities and actions originate in the home. The atmosphere, then, must be warm and pleasing, the creation of which is the job of the homemaker.

In order for her to create a pleasant surrounding, it is essential that she have a basic knowledge in all areas of homemaking. Through special courses offered in the Home Economics Department, such a knowledge and understanding is perfected. Cooking, sewing, and personal grooming are some of the many items which are learned.

The department recognizes that boys, as well as girls, may enter a career in this field. The Food Service Department has been offered to encourage them to develop their skills in the cooking field.

Through the efforts and cooperation of both instructors and students, the course is successful in emphasizing the importance of good homemaking.

Library

MISS EVA STANTON
Librarian

"The medicine chest of the soul" is what a library really is. In it can be found a cure for all ills from research papers to a good book to read. Bunnell's library offers a wide variety of fiction, non-fiction and reference material and over 150 different magazines with back issues to 1960.

The library has audio-visual equipment to help a student further his knowledge of his area of research. The media range from tapes, slides and filmstrips to microfilm copies of magazine articles.

Assisted by the library club and service corps, an able staff is always willing to help and serve the students. From 7:30 until 4:00 the library is open to Bunnell and a staff member is available.

The library gives one the opportunity to purchase current paperbacks in the spring of each year at prices lower than most bookstores. Because the library is a resource center, it is in constant use throughout the day.

Reading Laboratory

Students on any grade level wishing to improve reading skills, speed, or comprehension come to the reading center. They do not need to be deficient in reading skills to be admitted, but they need to have the desire to improve.

Reading skills are not the only techniques practiced at the center. There are also spelling and vocabulary improvement courses offered there. For the college bound junior or senior, a semester in vocabulary improvement could help his S.A.T. scores.

All work is done on an individual basis; that is, each student is allowed to proceed at his own pace. For the student who wants to read faster and understand more, the center offers him the opportunity to improve his reading rate and comprehension.

Service Staff

People seldom seen are usually taken for granted. The work of people behind the scenes is also accepted without much thought about who is responsible for and who is to be thanked for such work. The service staff of Bunnell High School is one such group. Maintaining and upkeeping our school demands that the custodians work long and arduous hours. The cafeteria women devote much time and effort producing nutritious, well-balanced meals for the entire student body. These people play a vital role in school life, contributing their services to Bunnell High School.

When the system established a separate junior high school, he remained on the faculty of Stratford High School until he was named coordinator of Senior High School Physical Education and Athletics in 1960. While teaching at Stratford High, he also coached the baseball, track, and basketball teams through many victories. For many years he has served as Director of Town Recreation in Stratford. In Memoriam

MR. JAMES RIDDERVOLD
Chairman of Social Studies Department

I am knowledge.
A book of fact and fancy
Opened long ago.

I am truth.
I face the inevitable
With peace of mind.

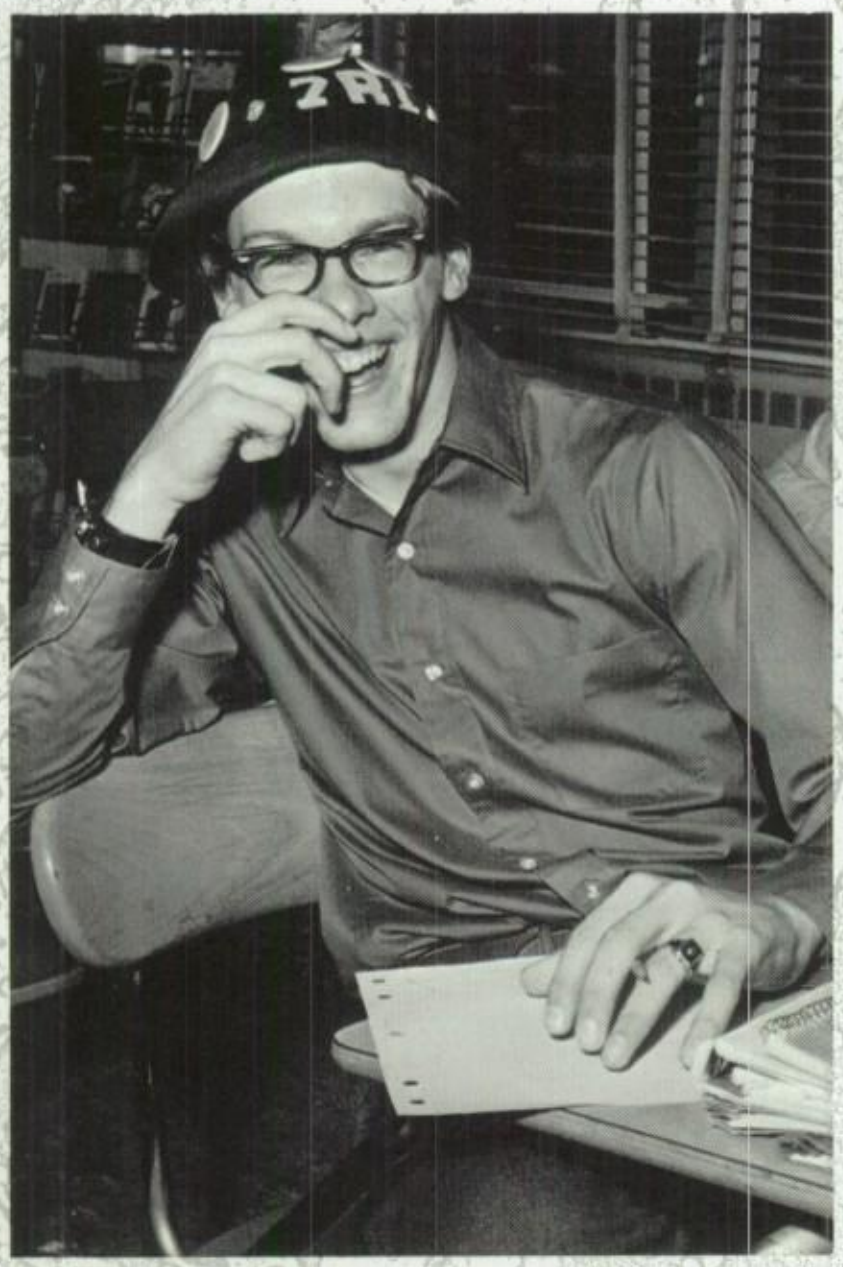
I am pride.
I see the final pages—
A story of triumph.

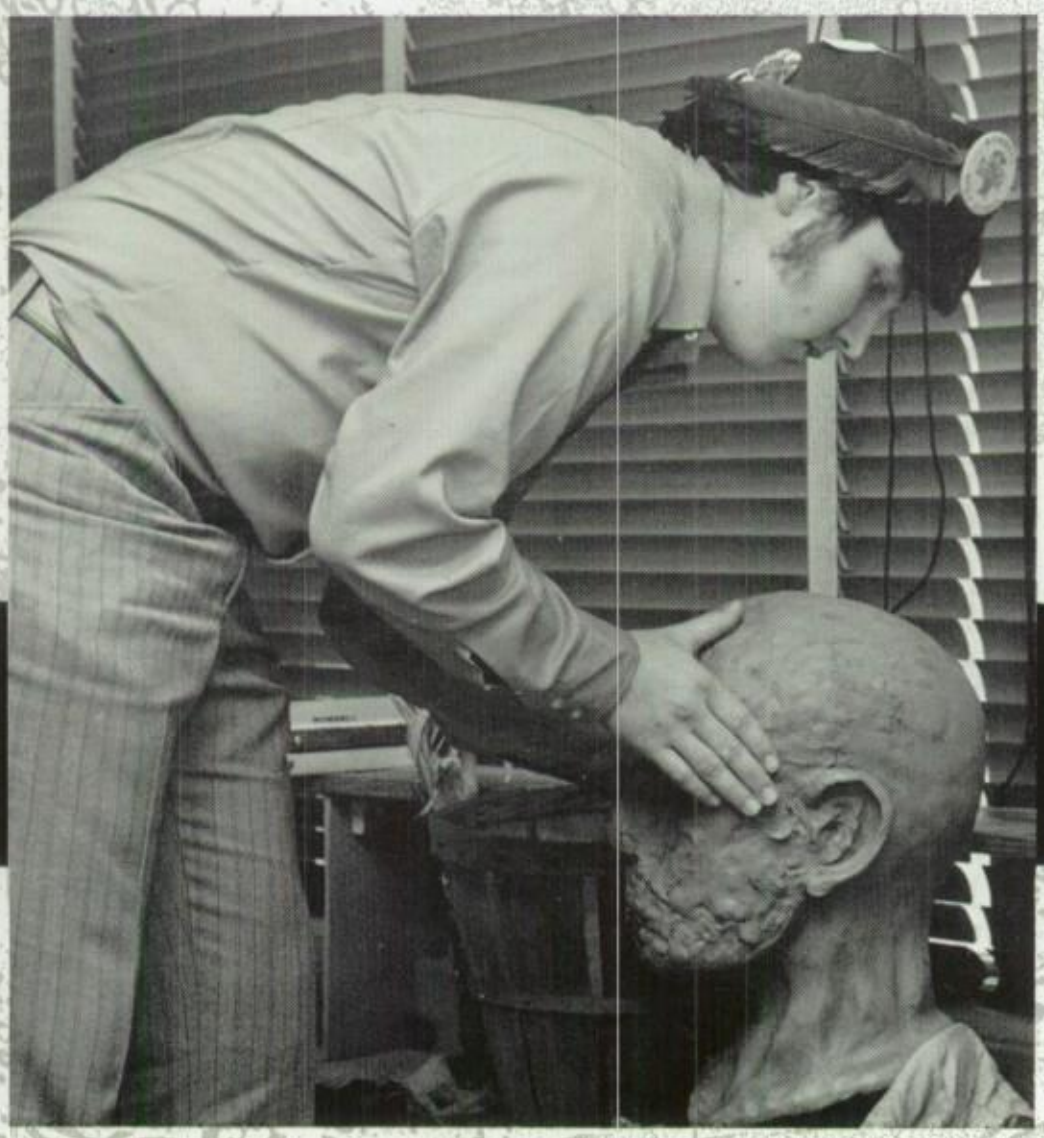
I am a memory.
An epilogue completed,
I leave this life,
But before me lie the stars.

Many people usually take years to leave their mark in society. Few people are able to leave a lasting impression during a short period of time. Mr. James T. Riddervold was one of these few people.

Born in Cambridge, Massachusetts, Mr. Riddervold graduated from Davidson College and the University of Vermont. He served as a staff sergeant in the Transportation Corps of the United States Army during World War 11. In 1968 he moved to Stratford, where he was appointed chairman of the Social Studies Department for Secondary Schools.

At Bunnell, Mr. Riddervold strove to help students achieve a better understanding in the field of social studies. Through his special efforts, new courses have been introduced into the senior curriculum. To those at Bunnell who knew Mr. Riddervold, his various accomplishments will long be remembered.





As we strike out
On unknown paths,
A part of each of us
Will remain here,
Where the journey began.

Time passes . . .
Man's only path to immortality
Is giving to his fellow man.
The part given Lives on . . .

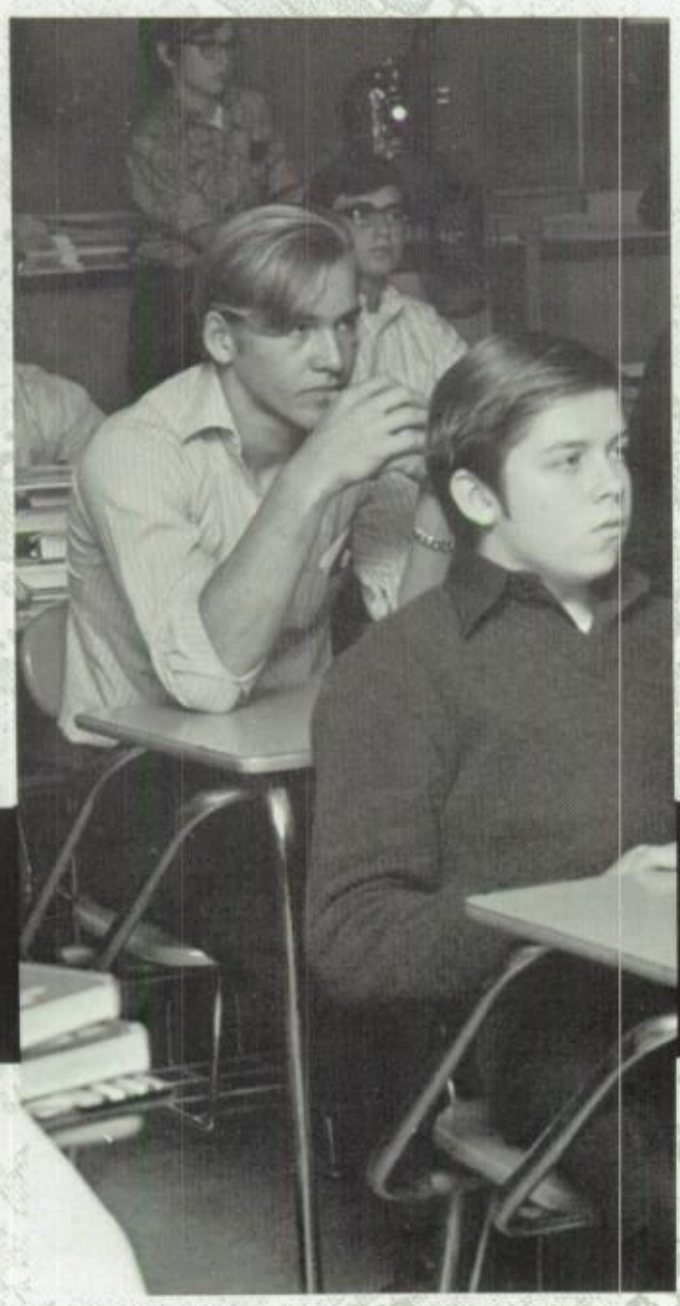
Time passes . . .
Touching everyone he meets,
Searching, learning,
Helping . . .
Giving . . .

Time passes . . .
He is suddenly gone.
There is a void
Where his kindness
Had once lain.

Time passes . . .
Yet the goodness
He shared with us
Remains.



Young travelers,
Uncertain of their future destinations.
While others choose their paths.
Pondering the coming decision,
Waiting, watching, thinking.

Football

This year, Coach Manning Harvey's squad scored 25 more points, overall, than it did last year. Andy Powell, a junior, was the leading scorer with 60 of the 149 points scored. John Svatik and Bill Figlar, also juniors, were second and third with 22 and 20 points, respectively.

Bunnell's two victories were exciting ones. In the Bassick game, Andy Powell, Bill Figlar, and Jay Sowder combined to score a touchdown each, while the Bulldog defense kept the Lions scoreless. Senior Greg Corris kicked two point conversions after the last two touchdowns, to make the final score 20-0.

The Bulldogs won the Bullard Haven's game with a score of 51-6. Andy Powell scored three times with runs of 18, 22, and 56 yards. John Svatik and Bill Figlar each scored twice. Other high points of the game were an interception and fumble recovery by Jay Sowder, each of which led to scores.

Senior John V. Mirto was a great help to the team in opening up holes in the line, and he scored the first Bunnell touchdown of the season. Andy Powell was again chosen for the all M.B.I.A.C. team. Bunnell can look forward to a good season next year with a long list of experienced juniors returning.

Co-captains Mark Gallagher and Gene Forbes were a great help to the team with their consistent victories. Both went on to qualify for the state meet at the University of Connecticut. The team's hopes for the coming season are bolstered by the return of the new co-captains, Bob Spada and Bob Rocks, and new members Greg Simpson, Rich O'Malley, Charles Celler, and Bob Flaherty.

Swimming

This year the Bunnell Swim Team had its best season ever. The Mermen turned in an excellent 16-2 overall record for the 1970-1971 season. The M.B.I.A.C. record was 10-1. This fine record put the team in a tie for first place in the M.B.I.A.C. with Milford. The mermen were also defeated by Trumbull in a nonconference meet. This meet was close, and was only lost in the last relay.

The swimmers proved their excellence not only in tying for first place but also for breaking 14 previous Bunnell team records and 3 M.B.I.A.C. records. Two conference records were broken for the 400 yard freestyle; one for a championship meet, and one for a dual meet. The winning combination of swimmers for this event was comprised of Jim Fallon, Dave Delear, Bill Lavery, and Jim Hutchinson. Dave Burson, the team's sole senior, broke the M.B.I.A.C. record for the 100 yard breaststroke in a dual meet.

The mermen are looking forward to another great season next year, with many experienced swimmers returning, with the loss of only one senior.

Basketball

The Bunnell basketball team had a 6-10 record in the 1970-1971 season. The team had a good start, winning the first three games against Bullard Havens, Warde, and Law. During the course of the season the team lost several close games, including one to Prep by only 2 points. The team was hampered by several illnesses and injuries.

This year, Ron Scheibel, John Lavery and Brian Donovan won honorable mention to the All-M.B.I.A.C. team. Ron Scheibel was also a member of the All-West team, which is comprised of the best players in the Western Division of the M.B.I.A.C.

Next year the team will have three co-captains, John Lavery, Brian Donovan, and Steve Pulaskey. Next year's team should do well with many experienced players returning.

The speeches flow.
Time out from the classroom,
But learning just the same.
Letting social gatherings add us
Along the paths we have chosen to take.

Goodbye and good luck. You're off to college or out into the working world. Either way, there's a lot to do, a lot to see, a lot still to learn. And either way, you'll be getting a special kind of higher education, which is something we approve of at Avco Lycoming.

We're the world's largest producer of gas turbine engines for helicopters—a leader in the field of aerospace—and our people have to be highly educated—some through text books and others through machine tools—but each in his own way.

If you're around town, stop in and see us. We care about the future. Yours and ours.

As one road
Separates and divides,
farewells bidden,
final memories shared.
Each reaches out towards an approaching future.

Some trails may cross,
Others coincide,
but all travel
their own private paths that decide their own private lives.

Each person
looks back fondly on events and memories left somewhere in the halls of Bunnell and in the minds of those who shared.
